REASON FOR ALLOWANCE

1. The primary reason for allowance is that the prior fails to teach the combination of elements as instantly claimed. Namely, Applicant claims the combination of a portable device for cleaning the underside of a vehicle, the apparatus includes a truck mounted water supply including a pump for transferring the wash fluid, a plurality of elongated conduits that are to be positioned on the ground beneath the vehicle so the vehicle may drive over them, connectors/couplers arranged to joined the conduits so the they may lay flat on the ground, ramp means positioned under the conduits, with the conduits specifically arranged in a particular manner to provide fluid to specific portions of the vehicle. The art is replete with all of the above-mentioned teachings, however, there is no motivation in such to combined the elements as specifically claimed without destroying the teachings of the prior art.
